Many New Books At Library

Preparations Underway For a Busy Winter—List of Recent Acquisitions.

Addison Public Library is preparing for a busy winter with many new and attractive books awaiting the patrons. Among the most interesting of the recent acquisitions are the following'

THE FAR HORIZON, Henry Lanier, tells of the life of Birger Johnson who has been an aviator since boyhood. He has done "stunt" flying and air acrobatics for movies; has been air observer for the Irrigation Service; done "wild duck" patrol service in the Sacramento Valley rice fields and many other thrilling experiences have fallen to his lot.

BLACK BAGDAD, by John Craige, Captain of the U. S. Marines is what Captain Craige named Port au Prince, capital of Haiti, where he was called to take charge of the black police force. He found the city full of happenings and tales as fantastic and exciting as one could imagine and he tells the story in a manner that will appeal to men.

FROM SIAM TO SUEZ, by J. S. Childers, will need no publicity. Men and women who enjoyed this author's THROUGH ORIENTAL GATES will await this with anticipated pleasure.

CONGO SOLOfi by Emily Hahn, is the tale of her experiences in the heart of the Belgian Congo. Nothing but a reading of the book itself can define its powers of entertainment.

ALWAYS A GRAND DUKE, by the late Grand Duke Alexander of Russia is a book for which the Library has had numerous calls.

Symonds Family Holds Reunion

The thirteenth annual reunion of the Symonds family was held Thursday, August 31, in the grove at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Symonds.

Although the number was small the day was much enjoyed by those attending. The main feature of the day was the delectable dinner served about 1 o'clock. This was followed by the regular business meeting called to order by the president, Tracy Symonds. The report of the secretary and others were given and accepted after which the new officers were elected as follows: President, Tracy Symonds of Buffalo; vice-president, Howard Symonds; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Paul Symonds; executive committee, Mrs. Henry Myers, Kenneth Symonds, Mrs. Clifford Symonds; Historian, Miss Laura B. Willson, Mrs. Howard Symonds; Refreshment, Mrs. Earle Brown; Athletic, Seward Heckman; prize com., Howard Symonds.

The place for the next reunion was left for the committee to decide. Quoits, running races, a ball game and other sports were enjoyed. The three legged race was won by Laverne Croft and Seward Heckman. Others receiving prizes as winners were Gwendolyn Symonds, Henry Myers, Paul Symonds Esther Wormley, Robert Heckman and Kate Symonds.

Those present were: Rev. and Mrs. Benjamin R. Croft, son Laverne, Mr. and Mrs. George Symonds and sons George, Jr., and Edwin, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Myers, G. W. Mowry, Mrs. Lee Heckman, sons, Seward and Robert, Esther Wormly, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Symonds and daughter Gwendolyn, Mr. and Mrs. Len F. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Symonds and daughters Barbara and Beverly of Troupsburg.

Nelson B. Payne To Open Offices In Sisto Block

Will Carry General, Fire and Casualty Insurance—Will Handle Well Known Reliable Companies—Investment business will be continued.

Nelson B. Payne, well known Addison investment specialist, has leased offices on the second floor of the Sisto Block and upon completion of alterations within the next week or ten days, will open a general fire and casualty insurance agency. He will continue to handle selected high grade investments as heretofore.

Mr. Payne has been making plans since June to engage in insurance business. A state law enacted in 1931 provides that no agent can sell insurance until properly qualified. To meet all legal requirements as provided by this enactment, Mr. Payne has devoted himself to specialized studies during the past three months.

As a consequence he was well equipped for the special insurance examinations which were held in Buffalo recently. In these tests, Mr. Payne was one of the two, out of a class of twenty-five who received satisfactory ratings in all phases of insurance work. It is notable that in simultaneous tests conducted in eleven cities, less than twenty per cent of the total number of entrants emerged successful.

Mr. Payne will handle general fire and casualty polices only, all in standard, reliable, old line companies. These include Aetna, Fidelity, Phoenix, Scottish Union, National Liberty, National Union and several casualty companies handling automobile compensation and liability insurance.

Workmen are already engaged in fitting up his offices which will be attractively arranged and equipped with all up-to-the-minute appointments.

A SON

Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Fuller are parents of a son, born last week at their former home in Middlebury, Pa. The infant has been named Alfred.

John K. Miller and daughter, Miss Marguerite Miller of Greenwood, spent Thursday as guests of Mrs. Minnie Carpenter.

Mrs. Clifford Symonds and Mrs. Reid Murdock of Austinburg, called on Mrs. E. G. Husted Saturday.

Woodhull To Play 3 More Games

The Woodhull ball team has done pretty well this season, winning some hard battles and losing a few supposedly easy ones, but the boys are not through yet, as Manager Herb Mosher has booked three more games to finish the season with.

Next Sunday, the 10th, the Woodhull nine tackles Cameron Mills at Drake's Field at 2 P. M.

The following Sunday ,the 17th, they play Troupsburg also at Drake's Field. This will be a hotly contested game, as the teams have each won one battle.

The final game, Sunday, the 24th, the Elkland League team will come over to Drake's Field, bringing a lot of rooters with them to worry the Woodhull boys.

The Labor Day games were interesting and drew large crowds of ball fans. In the morning game Bob Drake's Jasper nine defeated Woodhull by the score of 10 to 6. Ellison Hotaling pitched a nice game, but was not supported sufficiently to overcome the lead of the Jasper boys.

In the afternoon tilt the strong Canisteo League team defeated the Woodhull-Jasper combination nine by the score of 8 to 5. The losers were wobbly at times, and just seemed unable to hit the Canisteo pitcher.

Managers Bob Drake and Herb Mosher want to thonk the public for the large attendance at the ball games and the dance on Labor Day, as the proceeds were sufficient to pay off the indebtedness of both clubs. Also the Managers thank the public in helping to get the teams uniformed and started. The business men of the two towns were very liberal in their financial help, according to Messrs. Mosher and Drake.

Ex-Service Men's Political League To Be Formed

Organization Meeting To Be Held September 14—To Be Non-Partisan—Asks Equal Status for Veterans and Support of Veteran's Legislation.

Plans for the formation of an Ex-Service Men's Political League, said to have been crystalizing for some time past, took actual form this week when it was announced that an organization meeting would be held at the Addison Grange Hall on Thursday night, September 14. It has been called by a temporary committee of ex-service men. E. G. Ferguson is chairman of the committee.

According to the committee announcement, the attendance of every veteran and all adult members of his family is desired at the organization meeting. An effort is being made to obtain two well-known speakers for the occasion.

This is the first effort which has been made to organize ex-service men for political action in this locality. It is said that the organization will be strictly non-partisan and that it will support for public office only those candidates who pledge themselves to give all veterans an equal status with non-veterans in public and private enterprise, locally and nationally, and those who will support legislation meeting veterans approval in state and national legislative bodies.

GROWTH REMOVED

Clarence J. Bebout underwent an operation in Hornell Tuesday for the removal of a growth in the palm of his right hand.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Hotaling and daughter Trilba, attended the fair in Westfield, Pa., one day last week.

Broken Wheel Delays Neilson Well Near Here

Work on the Neilson well has been delayed the past few days by a broken band wheel on the drilling outfit. The drillers shut down last Thursday at a depth of 1015 feet when the wheel gave out. Repairs to the wheel have been delayed by absence of E. E. Scott, drilling contractor on the Neilson, who has been called to Buffalo by the critical illness of his wife.

Operators drilling the well expect the repairs will be made some time this week, when work will be resumed. The Neilson is an Oriskany test being drilled near Goodhue Lake.

Dr. A. G. Stiker Is Author of New Manual

Endorsed by National Guard Regimental Staff and Distributed in Printed Forms to All Officers of Medical Corps in 27th Division—Also Named as Sanitary Inspector at Camp Smith.

Dr. Amos G. Stiker, well known Addison dentist, who holds the rank of Captain in the 105th Hospital Company, New York National Guard, is the author of a military qualification system which has been officially promulgated by his regimental staff at the recent encampment at Peekskill.

The system devised by Dr. Stiker embraces a plan for examination of enlisting men with a view to selecting those best qualified for advancement to non-commissioned grade. The plan has been in continious use in Dr. Stiker's own unit, the 105th Hospital Company, for the past year and a half. It was found so helpful in systematizing promotion methods that it was en-

Seward Heckman entertained a few friends at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Heckman, Friday evening as a farewell for Leslie Hodges who has spent the summer at the Jennings farm but returned to Niagara Falls Saturday.

The evening was pleasantly spent with games. Refreshments were served. Those attending were the Misses Arloween Symonds, Esther Ten Broeck and Barbara Symonds and Leland Kilmer, Robert Heckman, Minnie Miller, Walter McMinds, T. M. Symonds, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Symonds, daughter Dreda and son Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Heckman, the honored guest and host, Seward Heckman.

SMITH—HOTALING

The marriage of Mrs. Eva Hotaling of this place and Burt F. Smith of Jasper, was solemnized at 6 o'clock Sunday evening in Hornell by Rev. Homer Potter, pastor of the Park Methodist Episcopal church.

Mrs. Smith is one of Woodhull's most prominent women and the best wishes of the community go with her to her new home.

Mr. Smith is a former resident of this place and is now a prosperous farmer in Jasper.

They were attended by the bride's daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Brotzman.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith are on a trip to Toronto.

Field Day Is Highly Successful

Festivities Marred By Injury to Elkland Player During Baseball Game.

A large and enthusiastic crowd, conservatively estimated at four to five hundred turned out for the ball game and field day at Tuscarora Field on Labor day.

As reported elsewhere in these columns Addison won out over Elkland by a 2 to 1 score in the deciding game of the inter-city series. In the 100 yard dash, an event which never fails to arouse much excitement, Allen of Elkland showed his heels to a classy field. Hibbard of Addison was second.

In the baseball throwing contest, Davenport of Elkland, took first honors. Swan of Elkland, Young and Grange of Addison, also participated. John Grange of Addison won the fungo hitting event, outclouting Swan, Riker, Davenport and Smith.

An unfortunate accident to Lawrence Smith, right fielder of the Elkland team, in the third inning of the baseball game marred the day's festivities. In attempting to slide into the plate, Smith suffered compound fracture of the right leg below the knee. Both bones were broken between the knee and ankle. Dr. H. E. Auringer and the MacDowell ambulance were summoned. After receiving first aid the young man was taken to the Robert Packer Hospital at Sayre, accompanied by James T. Erwin and John M. O'Keefe of Addison and friends of the young man from Elkland. An x-ray was taken and the fracture reduced. Later reports indicate that the player was progressing as rapidly as could be expected.

Over 400 Attend St. Catherine's Old Home Day

Drenching Rain Prevents Holding of Field Mass in Cemetery as Planned—Rev. Thomas Toomey, Great Grandson of First Adult Buried in Cemetery, is Present.

Due to inclement weather, the eleven o'clock Field Mass which had been planned as a feature of the Old Home Day celebration at St. Catherine's Church on Sunday last, could not be held in the cemetery. Instead the Mass was celebrated in the church at the scheduled hour. It is conservatively estimated that more than 400 perople were present.

Music was rendered by the boys' choir with Mrs. Francis Hill as organist. A brief history of the new and old St. Catherine's cemetery was given by Rev. Father Killackey, who also expressed his gratitute for the splendid cooperation and loyalty of the people in making the Old Home Day a success.

More than 220 adults were served at the dinner in the church hall and approximately 100 children enjoyed a picnic dinner on the rectory porch.

A notable guest was the Rev. Joseph Toomey, assistant pastor of St. Bridgets Church at Syracuse, a great grandson of Thomas Toomey, so far as known, the first adult buried in the local Catholic cemetery. Many relatives of William McCarthy, infant child buried in 1854, were also present.

Among those attending from out-of town were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edwards and son, Charles Jr., of Syracuse; Mrs. Mary Burke, Mrs. Mae Conlin and daughter Mary Conlin, Mrs. Abbie Leonard and Donald Smith of Rochester; Miss Mary Relihan of Glen Cove, L. OUR CODE POSITION

These days this country is embarked on the greatest uncharted experiment ever tried in this Republic. In an attempt to check the greatest depression in modern history, economic laws are being overturned and the structure of nearly every business is being flopped inside out by a limited group of men who earnestly believe the nation can be put back to work in that way.

Consumed by economic distress that was born in the waste of the World War, American has been willing to follow any lead which gave promise of better things. Consequently no program ever tried, has received even a fraction of the co-operation that is accorded the NRA. With few exceptions capital and labor have been ready to do their utmost in teamwork for better times.

Of the businesses which have not signed a code, doubtless the majority have been deterred by their inability to see how it would be possible to live up to the conditions of that code and still exist. There are people still living in the country today, who are not willing to sign an agreement which they cannot be sure of living up to in the fullest sense of the word.

Southern Tier News, the publishers of this paper have not as yet signed any code. They have refrained because for one thing a code for weekly newspapers and printers has not yet been finished, and for the further reason the tentative code so far worked out seems to be an impossibility to printers in a village the size of Addison. As far as the wage scale is concerned, even though the same rate of wages is set down for shops in large cities as in rural communities, that item is not insurmountable.

The great stumbling block in the code proposed by National Editorial Association, and the code proposed by the Graphic Arts Industry, lies in the fact a maximum of forty hours can be worked in any one week by printers and machine operators. Up to the present the publishers of this paper have been unable to see any possibility of printing it, and taking care of the job business of the plant in forty hours a week.

For some time the Advertiser shop has worked on a schedule of approximately fifty hours a week. In times of peak load the force has often worked fifty-four hours a week, yet no employee has complained of being mistreated because of that necessity.

There seem to be only two possible ways in which the working week of the Advertiser shop could be cut to forty hours: First by cutting down the news content of the paper, which to the publisher is an alternative unthinkable. And second, by doubling up the size of the force, which under present advertising volume and rate conditions, is an economic impossibility.

Recently the California weekly newspaper association petitioned both the National Editorial Association and Administrator Johnson, protesting the establishment of a forty-hour week in this industry. In strong language this association pointed out the fact that reducing the earning hours of country print shops to forty hours would be economic suicide to many of them and work unendurable hardships on all. The petitions requested a forty-eight hour week in towns over 2,500 population and no maximum limit in smaller places.

the code up to the present, because of the uncer-

This corporation has refrained from signing tainty within the industry. As an organization we are not ashamed of our efforts to give employment to as many people as possible. One new man was added to the staff this summer which brought another family into town, and every opportunity to get business which would aid employment here, has been seized. When a printing code is devised that is workable in shops located in towns the size of Addison, Southern Tier News, Inc., will be ready to sign.

HAZARDS AFOOT

Pedestrian deaths in 1932 were 44 per cent of all deaths due to automobile accidents. There were 12,770 foot travelers killed out of a total of 29,000 automobile accident deaths in the United States. This fact appears in an analysis by Maxwell Halsey, Traffic Engineer of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters.

Mr. Halsey finds four chief facts in pedestrian accident problem:

1. Auto-pedestrian accidents are only 5 per cent less than auto-auto accidents.

2. The pedestrian is almost twice as likely to be killed as the motorist.

3. Only 25 per cent of all accidents occur outside of cities or towns, but they are responsible for more than 50 per cent of all deaths.

4. Accidents to pedestrians walking along rural highways are at least four times as fatal as any other type of accident.

The following are the chief danger points to pedestrians: Narrow roads; black pavement that offers less contrast to the pedestrian and requires greater illumination; cuts through hills, fields and curves; recreation and refreshment locations where parked cars interfere with pedestrian visibility; schools, factories, parks, etc., where pedestrians walk on or cross highways; vehicles passing vehicles; "thumbing", where pedestrians stand on edge of road to attract attention; roadway laborers inadequately protected by signs; glaring lights; wet pavement.

Pedestrians should walk single file facing oncoming traffic; avoid blind spots; get out of the way of meeting or passing cars; wear light colored clothing at night or carry a reflecting device. The motorists, in turn, should know that pedestrians are not entirely visible at night. They should avoid the extreme edge of the road and sound their horns for any pedestrian situation that seems doubtful. Street lighting, wide sidewalks and traffic signals should be provided.

States without laws prohibiting hitch-hiking, or laws requiring pedestrians to walk to the left facing traffic, should pass them. These are constructive suggestions and should be seriously considered by all intelligent persons.

EUROPEAN WARS

Recently a man prominent in a central New York city returned after spending several months touring the countries of Europe. After spending weeks in Russia, Poland, Germany, Austria and England, this man was going through an art gallery in France when he met a French woman with an unusual point of view.

"America", said the woman, "should never have entered the World War at all. European nations have been fighting among themselves for more than a thousand years."

Here is an opinion voiced by a French woman, which we Americans in our density of thought, have scarcely arrived at. Yet it is so positively true, that time must eventually reveal the fact to all Americans. The World War was never America's quarrel, and despite the fires of patriotism we burned with some sixteen years ago, the gallant fight our boys made in France, was a futile loss of life and blood. For today the nations of Europe continue to hate each other with the same old hatred that consumed them ten centuries ago.

Since the war closed France has never ceased to bristle with arms, as she patrols her borders with the greatest army in the world. Poland, that buffer state recreated after the war from the territory once partitioned off to various powers of central Europe, shows a determination to hold her identity with a standing army of 250,000 troops and a reserve ready to instant call, of a million men. Italy under Mussolini, can boast of an immense air force.

And in an awakened Germany the hordes of brown-shirted Nazis have whetted the edge of their fast growing nationalism on every group or sect, which dared lift a dissenting finger, within that country's borders. Inwardly those followers of Hitler seethe with the desire to wipe out that cloud of defeat which has enveloped Germany since November, 1918.

Impoverished though they are from the last war, the nations of Europe continue to prepare for another conflict, which seems almost inevitably marching to meet those who can harbor in their hearts nothing but rancor, suspicion and selfishness.

We Americans made the fatal mistake of believing we could fight a war that would "Make the world safe for Democracy". It was a vain thought, even if it was a noble one. Will we be inveigled into taking sides in the next European conflict, or will we take to heart the lesson learned from our last excursion into foreign conquest; a conquest not for territory, but presumably for liberty and honor?

The milk of human kindness we drew for humanity in general, has been turned sour by contact with people we tried to succor. The blood spilled on French battlefields by Americans, is scorned by Frenchmen embittered by the knowledge of money debts they refuse to pay.

Have we learned our lesson? Will we be able to keep out of the next European war? Or will we again be led to heights of misconceived zeal by a deluge of propaganda devised to take sides in a quarrel that is not ours? Americans should never forget these things. They should remember the debt owed our own heritage is greater than any impulse to mix in European affairs we cannot even understand.

We have paid for a dear lesson. Let us not forget.

THE CONSUMER ALWAYS PAYS

Our law-making bodies are becoming past masters in figuring out ways and means to dodge responsibility for increasing taxes which the public has to pay.

A legislative measure will be broadcast to the public as a tax reduction measure for the people, but pull aside the curtain and see what the real truth generally is.

The net result of most tax reduction measures is a shifting of taxes from one class of voters to another, hiding taxes under a new name, or the collection of more taxes through splitting of the levies in various smaller assessments.

FLIGHTS FROM THE BIRDHOUSE

By Rev. J. V. AXTELL

More About the Bumblebee

Probably the Creator intended that all nature should harmonize and balance. I know of that which points to the contrary, but there is much that favors the proposition. The earth worm may mar the skin of a few potatoes, but he aerates the soil; the robin helps himself to our cherries, but he cheers our hearts with his song and he sees to it that the earthworm may not become too plentiful. I truly believe that it could be exemplified through all phases of life forms that Nature is balanced, and possesses provision for all her children, great and small. Jesus said, "Behold the birds of the air: for they toil not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them.

He could have said as much of the bumblebee. I know of four flowers the bumblebee loves that hold their nectar exclusively for him and who in return have no other means of extending their kind except through him. I have no doubt that more exhaustive examples could be given, not only with regard to the bumblebee, but to any other forms of life. Here are four I definitely know.

I believe it was Agassiz who once said that if there were no cats there would be no red clover. The purport of this subtle statement was that the cats killed the field mice and the bumblebees set up housekeeping in the nest made vacant by Mouse's demise. The red clover blossom is fertilized by the bumblebee alone.

You have never tasted red clover honey made by the domestic bees as their tongues are too short to reach the nectar in the long florets. I heard one of the most noted bee men of this country tell about discovering one time some of his honey bees working among the red clover. He traced them to one colony and then began to breed long tongued honey bees that could work in red clover. Then something happened to that parent colony and long-tongued honey bees took an unnoticed place with the dodo bird and other extinct animal life.

Some of us with a taste of farm life recall the experience of following up the mower in the clover fields and hearing that particular sissing, red hot buzz under our feet. We kicked aside the new mown clover and found the bumblebees' home in a deserted mouse nest. As one by one the orange and black workers struggled out of the mass of dead grass blades we hit him with our chip hat or with a whisp of hay and then we cleaned out their pantry. It was wanton murder and pillage in the home of an honest worker who played the game of give and take in the clover fields and thus became a blessing to the dairy cow, to the farmer and men, women and babies in the far off city.

Another flower that is a particular friend of the bumblebee is the yellow toadflax. An immigrant from Europe it has made itself at home in all parts of our country. It loves the sun and dry and gravelly pastures. Its bloom is built on the principle of the cabinet bed hinged at the head. The front bedlike spur closes against two upright lobes. Weight is necessary to open it and therefore Bumby alone has the combination. The hornets and honey bees and ants are too light. This heavyweight among the bees lights on the puffy front of the bloom, it yields sufficiently so he can drive his long tongue down where the nectar is stored, his hairy head catches the pollen from the anthers and in backing out he rubs his head against the style; some of the pollen is shaken off and so the bumblebee pays the toadflax for his honey material. A member of the animal kingdom and one from the vegetable kingdom are created for one another, and each contributes something to the other, joyfully playing the game of give and take.

The third flower that demonstrates this principle of harmony and balance in nature is the beautiful Blue Closed Gentian. These blooms are shaped like oblong toy balloons. They are peculiar in that the five petals never fully open. The mature flower is in form like the young bud of a wild single rose. How rich it is in nectar deposit you will have to ask the bumblebees for they alone hold the secret. Here strength is necessary as well as weight and Bumby madly, defiantly and yet with a blundering deftness parts the petals and get what he goes after. It is a poor pun to say that he holds the indenture, but it is sure that bumblebees are the only insects that succeed in "working on shares" for the closed gentian.

The fourth blossom that is an exclusive partnership with the bumblebee is none other than that beautiful orchid the Pink Lady's Slipper or Moccasin Flower. This variety differs from the others in that its inflated lip has a slit in front instead of a round opening. To enter this blossom weight does not count, but strength does. Bumby being the sampson of his race forces his way through while other nectar gatherers and pollen distributors are shut out. But when the bee gets inside, the doors, of their own accord, shut behind him and even he cannot open them. For a time he is too busy to notice this, then he discovers two flecks of light near the base of the flower which is above him and toward these he flounders through and over hairy and sticky anthers and receptive style until he bids farewell to his beautiful cloister leaving behind him a fee for his entertainment, and carrying away with him a harvest of sweetness that was secreted for him and him alone.

Behold the bumblebee of the field. Our Heavenly Father Feedeth him. For Croesus in all his abundance was not provided for like one of these.

Efforts to Circumvent New York State Constitution Brings Talk Of Another Extra Session

Albany, Sept. 5—There is talk of another extra session of the Legislature this year, depending on how the courts view the work of the one just closed. All ready two such sessions have been called to help New York City out of her financial difficulties, one last year and one this. The possibility of another hangs on a little quirk in the attempt to get around the State Constitution. The latter provides that "the Legislature shall not pass any law relating to the property, affairs or government of cities, which shall be special or local, either in its terms or its effect . . . except on message from the Governor declaring that an emergency exists and the concurrent action of two-thirds of each house of the Legislature."

Dodging the Constitution

In an attempt to get around this provision, the law for the relief of New York City gives the power to impose additional taxes not to the city by name, but to "any city of the state having a population of one million inhabitants or more." It was not passed on an emergency message from the Governor, and it did not receive a two-thirds vote. One group argues this was not necessary—that the bill is not special legislation affecting a particular city, but that all cities of over a million. Opposed to this is the view that it is "special or local in its effect", to quote the language of the Constitution, since only one city can possibly be affected by it.

Law Will Be Attacked

It is practically certain the law will be attacked by those upon whom the new taxes will be imposed by the city, and another extra session to repass it in watertight form is easily among the possibilities. If one is held it will bring to Albany anything but a happy group of law-makers. They get no pay for an extra session except mileage for one trip here and back home. With the regular session of fourteen weeks, the special session of four weeks, and various necessary trips home, with other expenses, many of them have already spent practically all of their year's salary of $2,500—from which all of them had taken a voluntary cut of six per cent except 20 Democratic Assemblymen from New York City. Even the up-state Democrats are willing to admit that the effects of Tammany's mishandling of New York's affairs are not confined to that city.

Young Republicans Are Active

The Young Republican movement is growing rapidly in New York State. Already there are about sixty Young Republican Clubs and more are being organized. A newspaper organ, "The New York State Young Republicans", is published at Schenectady and has a prosperous look both from news and advertising point of view. The next step is a State Convention of the clubs to be held at Schenectady, beginning the evening of September 8 and ending the morning of the 10th. There will be addresses by prominent members of the party and plans will be laid for an aggressive part in this fall's campaign.

Would Mean Much to Farmers

Undoubtedly one of the most helpful things which the federal government could do right now for the agricultural section of New York State would be to cooperate in carrying out the project embraced in a resolution passed at the special session, introduced by Senator Lord of Afton and Assemblyman Deyo of Bingramton, both Republicans. It would make available $10,000,000 of federal funds for the improvement of country highways in this state. That, competent engineers say, would put in excellent condition on a permanent basis about 6000 miles of the present dirt roads and "take the farmer out of the mud" in earnest. It would moreover go far to solve the unemployment problem, since few undertakings provide as much work per dollar spent.

Previous Efforts Blocked

At every session of the Legislature for a number of years, until the Democrats came into control of the Senate this year, the Republicans have passed a bill providing for the improvement of dirt roads, but they have been regularly vetoed by Democratic Governors. The present would seem a good time for the Democratic officials of the state to reverse that policy and aid in getting from the Democratic leaders at Washington approval for the Lord-Deyo proposal. The citizens of New York are going to have to pay a very considerable proportion of that $3,300,000,000 to be spent on public works in the United States, and the people out in the country, where there are no post offices, tunnels or other big building projects, ought to get their share of the benefits.

Aroused the Governor's Suspicions

The endeavor of the Democratic legislators to get around that provision of the State Constitution which restricts special acts for particular cities by making New York City's tax law apply generally to cities "of one million or more population", recalls the famous attempt of Senator Henry O'Brien, Brooklyn Democrat, to legislate a friend into the practice of law last winter. The Senator didn't dare name his man—that would have been unconstitutional. So he secured the passage of a bill providing that "any citizen who has served in military or naval forces during the World War, lost one or more limbs, and received a degree of Bachelor of Laws prior to 1932", should be admitted to the practice of law without an examination. By some oversight the Senator omitted the color of hair and eyes. But it was all of no avail. In a suspicious moment Governor Lehman said it looked to him like special legislation and vetoed the bill.

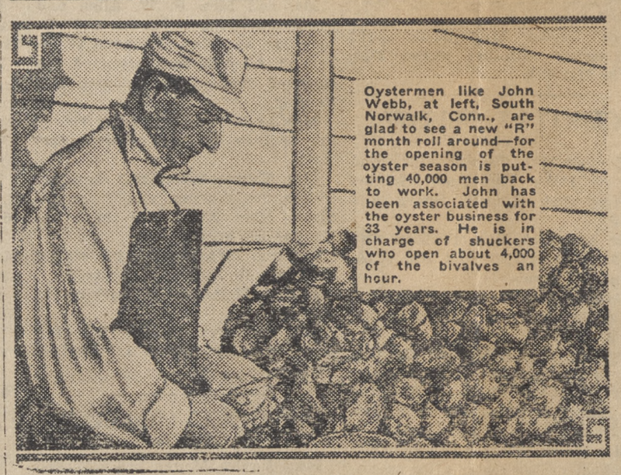
Oysters Back on Job
With Work for 40,000 . . . Gastronomic Delight for Nation



Oystermen like John Webb, at left, South Norwalk, Conn., are glad to see a new "R" month roll around—for the opening of the oyster season is putting 40,000 men back to work. John has been associated with the oyster business for 33 years. He is in charge of shuckers who open about 4,000 of the bivalves an hour.

Another "New Deal" is at hand.

With the advent of the first fall "R" month, his succulent majesty—the oyster—has arrived, and the season for enjoying the bivalves is once again officially opened.

Particularly enthusiastic over the oyster's annual return to a prominent place on the nation's menu are those epicureans who are blue without their bluepoints, and the 40,000 men being put back to work by this important $18,000,000 industry.

Benefits from this additional employment will extend to 19 coastal states where the industry operates. More than 70,000 people are regularly employed in the harvesting and distribution of the bivalves.

Richest Underwater Crop

Alternating with the salmon industry, the oyster business ranks highest in the value of fisheries. Its annual volume represents the world's richest underwater crop, and the value per acre greatly exceeds that of any land crop. Conservatively estimated, the average yield of an acre of oysters is $150.

Tens of thousands of dollars have been spent in research by the oyster industry in recent years, and science has revealed many significant findings concerning the oyster's contribution to bodily needs.

Most important, the food chemist has discovered that the oyster supplies, next to milk, a more balanced and complete diet than any other food.

The oyster is rich in calcium, phosphorous, iron, copper, and manganese, to say nothing of vitamins A, B, C, D and G. Raw oysters boast of 200 times as much iodine as eggs, milk, and steak. Oysters are easy to digest and are now pronounced beneficial in certain types of anemia.

Recommended for Reducing

Although ranking high in the food values column, the oyster is decidedly low in calories. In three and one-half ounces of oysters—that's equivalent to a serving of half a dozen on the half shell—the scientists can't find more than 50 calories. For this reason, authorities recommend oysters as being particularly safe for slenderizing menus.

As a result of science's disclosures, the time is rapidly passing when the American public eats its luscious oyster stews, chowders, pies, or what-have-you, and remains conscious only of their delightful flavor.

Yet be that as it may, millions of oyster lovers still hold that, regardless of what the good doctors have found, there is no reason like the original one for eating the oyster.

Most of us just like oysters—ample reason indeed!

ONE COACH IS HAPPY!

"Coach" we asked, "what are the prospects for another winning team at Addison High this Fall?"

Our query was prompted by the recollection that Addison had given the Corning Northside diamond aggregation a merry chase for the league bunting in the spring campaign. Reclining restfully in a couple of Barney Hill's easy chairs, face to face with the guiding spirit back of the Addison pennant rush, we considered it a perfect setting to learn the high school mentor's inner feelings with respect to his current crop of baseball protegees.

Admittedly, as a comparative newcomer, we sort of suspected that somehow the outlook might be a dreary one. Things have a habit of working that way. The equalizing forces of graduation, removal from town, etc. tend to create an eternal balance wheel Few coaches in towns the size of Addison are able to hold consistently near the top of the heap, especially when faced with the class of opposition to be found in Division A of the County League. Frankly now, we are already discounting Mr. Hewson's optimism.

But listen to this!

"We have unusually splendid prospects for a successful season", came the answer "In the first place we have practically a veteran nine. Every regular of last year's team is back with the single exception of Heidrick on third base. And I am confident that we can dig up an experienced replacement at the hot corner" he added.

"How about your pitchers, Coach?" we next inquired.

"Lefty Flynn and Joe Hopper will toe the mound any day or every day, for or against any prep school aggregation in the Southern Tier, and match the best of them. Flynn, unfortunately suffered a leg injury in the spring which kept him out of the game during the greater part of the season. But Lefty has plenty of smoke, a dazzling port side hook, and above all that boy has poise. He never gets ruffled. Every batter is just another man at the plate".

"And Hopper" he went on, "is a big rangy lad who has speed to burn. His control will stand improvement but the rough edges in this department will be smoothed off as he gathers experience. I look for Joe to have a great year".

"Backing up our ace twirlers, just mentioned, we have a couple more whom we are proud to own. Mathews, for instance, is coming along rapidly and will undoubtedly see much service. And Wade is a dependable lad who can be counted on if necessary".

"What about your catching department, Mr. Hewson?" was the next interrogation.

"Robbins, our regular catcher from last year is back and the boy shows unmistakable improvement in form. He has been playing ball all summer and is in tip top shape. He has an excellent throwing arm and is rapidly improving in accuracy. Also he uses good judgment in working the pitchers. His one weakness, inability to stop low balls is being gradually overcome by practice".

"At first base the call is between Hargrave and Ralph Wade" the coach continued with a sparkle of contentment visible in his eyes. "Just now Wade seems to have the edge. Ralph has been a pitching candidate with plenty of zip and good control but without much curve. He looks like a find on on first, however."

"You seem quite fortunately supplied with plenty of material for these positions, Mr. Hewson" we intervened, "can you say as much for the rest of the line-up?"

"Absolutely!" came the response, "around second we have the veteran combination of Doddato and Hovey. They balance off perfectly, and the medium is a happy one. Gib is a swell sticker, in fact, he led the team in hitting last year and was up around the top in the league averages. Hovey isn't quite the clouter that Doddato is, but it is just too bad when any of the visiting batsmen, hungry for hits, base their hopes in the general direction of the shortstop position. Hovey has been known to miss, but the statisticians haven't figured out how far back it was".

"These first three infield positions look safe enough" your columnist remarked. "Visualizing these lads under full steam on the field is a thrill in itself. By the way, getting back to the big leaguers for a minute, do you remember Tinker, Evers and Chance. There was a combination! Those fellows were good".

"So are these boys", resumed the local athletic director. "To go on—at third, supposedly our weakest spot, due to the graduation of Heidrick, there is Hallett, who seems to be coming through in grandiose fashion. At any rate he is showing plenty of promise. Then in the outfield it looks like the veterans Lindsley and Hadlock with Hickey and Mathews doubling up in the other berth. All of these boys are creditable fielders and they can hit when the spirit moves them. Of course it is my job to treat with this psychological aspect. I anticipate little difficulty in getting a respectable bit of slugging momentum under way in the course of an ordinary nine-inning game. With Hopper and Flynn burning 'em in there shouldn't be many emergencies which cannot be overcome by the hitting ability which these lads possess, mixed with a little good old-fashioned fighting spirit."

Plainly Coach Hewson thinks well of his regulars. But many promising seasons have, in countless places, been wrecked through lack of capable reserve material. "Do you have suitable stubstitues?" we queried.

"Phillips and Peck in the infield, Bergin in the outfield, are ready for duty any time", came the response. "And these aren't all. I have told you only of those who are leading the way at the present time. Experience has given all of these men the edge. But there any number of boys out there playing hard and some of them are improving fast. They are full of pep and fight. Don't be surprised if you hear of strange names, anytime", he concluded.

Good coaches are usually good prophets. Let's see what happens!

Pitcher's Battle Won By Addison

Ripley Outpitches Freburg at Tuscarora Field — Addison Takes Game 2 to 1, and Series by Small Margin.

Elkland and Addison mixed up in one of their old time red hot fights at Tuscarora Field Labor Day and Addison won the deciding game by the score of 2 to 1, but only after a pretty pitcher's battle in which Ripley bested Elkland's star, Buckey Freburg, by a narrow margin. The fight was a tie as far as the slab artists were concerned except that while Elkland got seven hits off Ripley, the Addison man distributed them over six innings, while Addison bunched three clean bingles in the seventh to win the game. Each man struck out seven batters and walked one, but the deciding factor was in the invincibility of Ripley with men on bases. Ripley pitched one of the finest games of his career and he has pitched a lot of good games. It was too bad that the game was not a league game, but the victory was just as sweet at that to the big crowd that turned out to see the afternoon's entertainment.

Hewson was the only man to find Freburg for more than one hit, while Mulaski got three and Hugic two for the visitors. And by the way there was not an extra base hit in the party. John Grange and Phil Hickey did some extra fine fielding. John pulled a Mel Ott stunt, at least Phil said it was, when he dove for a low liner off Freburg's bat and after rolling over a few times came up with the ball. Staff Whitmore and Harry Hoyt saw service for a few innings for the first time in several months and both performed well. George LaChance caught his usual fine game, and Swan did likewise for the visitors. Mulaski was the big shot for Elkland both in the field and at bat. Dorn and Dorn and Caffo also worked perfectly. The game was marred by an unfortunate accident, when Lawrence Smith, right fielder for Elkland, fell sliding into the plate in the third inning and suffered a compound fracture of his right leg just above his ankle.

Elkland scored in the sixth as a result of a wild throw and Hugic's single, but Addison tied it up and went the necessary one better in the next inning. Hickey started it off with a line single over second base and stole second. Riker blazed one at Freburg, but the pitcher threw him out. John Grange drove a hard hit single to left center and Hickey came over with the tieing run. George LeChance connected with a clean drive to right center and when the ball eluded Darby, Grange hot footed it all the way from first to home and LaChance pulled up at third. The two runs were enough to win as Ripley with some sparkling support breezed through the last two sessions in easy style.

The score follows:

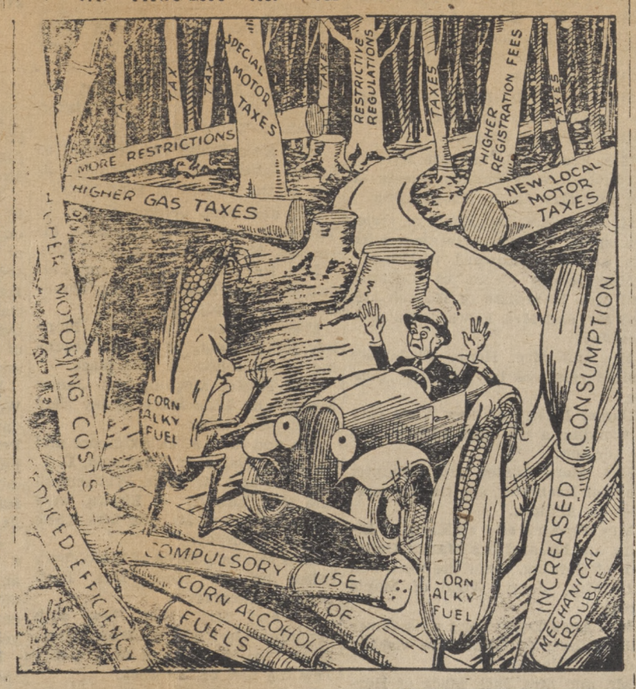
Morris Run Plays Here Next Sunday

Fast Miners Will Make Their First Appearance at Tuscarora Field.

One of the biggest attractions of the season will be the first visit of Morris Run to Tuscarora Field next Sunday, September 10th. The Miners were newcomers this year in the Tri-County League, but are one of the best teams in the League and one of the best drawing cards. They always play fast, snappy ball and play every game out to the finish. They have a big following of fans and always bring a big crowd of rooters with them. Their pitching staff is one of the best in the League, with Batulis, last year with Blossburg, and Williams. They are a hard hitting team and fast. Addison fell before their attack at Morris Run early in the season, but only after McDermott had stood them on their heads for seven innings without a run. Batulis opposed Addison in that game and will probably be in the box Sunday. He held Addison away from the plate until the closing innings when the locals were finding his delivery for hits galore.

Ripley will probably oppose them. After nursing a sore arm nearly all the season, Ripley is again in fine condition as was evidenced by his fine work against Elkland Monday and will doubtless give the Morris Run outfit a run for their money. Grange is suffering from a strained tendon, but McDermott may pitch. Addison will have their best lineup on hand and there is sure to be a real ball game with a big crowd on hand to see the fireworks. Addison is playing fine ball now and deserve is playing fine ball now and deserves game as usual will begin promptly at 3 o'clock.

AND HE THOUGHT HE WAS OUT OF THE WOODS!



Many Activities of Boy Scouts

Troop Organized Only Two Years Ago—Remarkable Progress Since That Time—Two Awards in Current Season.

The ADVERTISER is indebted to Dixon Curtis, scout master of Addison Troop, No. 27, for information in the paragraphs below, relative to the history of the local Scout organization. This historical and informational material is especially timely in view of the appeal for funds now being made by the Steuben Area, Boy Scout Council, of which Addison is a part.

After an earlier Scout organization had been abandoned here in 1924, the movement was renewed in 1931. In November of that year a group of citizens met at the American House for the purpose of starting a Boy Scout troop. It was decided at this meeting to elect delegates from each of the churches, also from the Advertising Club and the American Legion to comprise a permanent troop committee.

The delegates chosen, together with the respective organizations which were represented were as follows: Baptist Church, John Aumick; Methodist Church, Richard Hunt; Presbyterian Church, E. D. Crane; St. Catherine's Church, Francis Kane; Church of the Redeemer, Fred G. Clark; Advertising Club, Dr. Matthew Whitmore; American Legion, Dixon Curtis.

Dr. Matthew F. Whitmore was elected chairman of the troop committee and Francis Kane, treasurer, at the organization meeting of the group. Committee meetings at the time were held in the office of E. D. Crane. Duties of the troop committee were defined as follows: the selection and appointment of a scout master, the designation of a troop meeting place, service as an advisory committee to the scout master and the making of application to the Steuben Area Council for a National Charter.

The application for a charter met with favorable action, the charter becoming effective March 31, 1932. Upon the election of Dixon Curtis as scout master, it was necessary for him to resign as representative of the American Legion Post on the troop committee. Homer Reynolds was thereupon elected in his place.

The first troop meetings were held in the Library. Later, through the courtesy of the Board of Education, the use of the old Main Street Gymnasium was extended to the troop.

Assistant scoutmasters were named as follows: Rev. J. V. Axtell, Charles Hubbs and Wendell Hewson. The registration of the troop at thit time was about 42 Scouts. The first group activity in which the troop participated was the indoor rally held at Bath, April 8 to 11, 1932. Later in the year the troop took part in the outdoor camporee held at Pyrex Park, Corning. Thirty-three scouts participated in this three-day camping event. They set up their own tents, prepared their own food and maintained their own government, cooperating with other troops of the council only in competitive events and recreation.

During the month of July, 1932, twenty-two Addison boye entrained for a week's scouting at Camp Gorton, Waneta Lake. These lads passed several tests and advanced to various classifications of scouting. Meantime, during the summer and fall several hikes were taken in the nearby vicinity for the purpose of scouting. On December 8th, 1932, the first district indoor scout rally was held in Addison. Between 175 and 200 Scouts were in attendance from throughout the Corning district, of which Addison is a part.

In March, 1933, the annual indoor rally was held at the Armory in Hornell. Several of the Scouts received some of ther rewards at the Court of Honor at that time.

Also in March, 1933, application was made for renewal of the troop Charter. Presentation of the Charter was made by Scout Commissioners Fred Anderson and Richard Reynolds, both of Corning. At that time a troop birthday party was held. Present with the Scouts to witness the cutting of the birthday cake with one candle were members of the troop, executive committee and the board of review. At this time two changes occurred in the membership of the executive committee. Francis Kane who had resigned to become assistant scoutmaster was succeeded by Francis Hill, as representative of St. Catherine's Church, and Fred G. Clark was succeeded by Eugene Wade, as representative of the Church of the Redeemer.

The big event of the 1933 season was the annual comporee held at the Bath Fair grounds. Thirty-five boys from Addison Troop 27 attended this three-day camping rally. During the camporee, the local troop was awarded the badge for attendance. and advancement. In July twenty-one boys camped for a week at Camp Gorton when Addison gained the honor of having the greatest percentage of troops in attendance.

During the past year, two awards have been made to Troop 27, these being the Hoover Award and the Rotary Award. The Hoovar award is granted for attendance at meetings, advancement and publicity, and takes the form of a streamer attached to the troop flag. The Rotary Award, given by the county Rotary is in the form of a silver bar pin and goes to each member of the Troop.

A TROOP is made up of four patrols. These are the Flying Eagles, the Foxes, Wolves and Beavers respectively.

BOARD OF REVIEW —When a Scout registers in the troop he is known as a Tenderfoot and is obliged to pass certain mental tests and one manual test (knotting of the rope). At the end of thirty days and upon successful passing of 12 tests, he is advanced to Second Class. At sixty days after becoming a Second Class Scout he passes more advanced tests in camping, safety, etc., and is then awarded his first class badge. From this point on he begins his Merit Badge Advancement in which he is required to pass various tests toward the badges he has selected.

When a scout has successfully passed before his scoutmaster in quest of the merit badge, he is required to present himself for expert examination upon subject matter related to the badge for which he is striving. Upon passing the last examination he presents himself in full uniform before the Board of Review which meets on the second Thursday of each month. At this meeting the board examines the Scout and if he is found worthy, he is awarded the merit badge.

The local Board of Review is made up as follows: Fred Sutliff, chairman, Lattimer Brewster, Will B. Leet and R. B. Dykins.

The present troop is in charge of Dixon Curtis as scoutmaster, and Rev. J. V. Axtell, Rev. T. A. Withey, Francis Kane and Harold Smith as assistant scoutmasters, Gilbert Brown is senior patrol leader, Richard Peck, scribe, Gilbert Brewster and Wendell Root buglers, Joseph Dominick and Donald Gillespie, cooks.

Members of the troop are: Curtis Aldrich, Maynard Allen, Edward Auringer, Eugene Bebout, Charles Bovee, William Brewster, Gilbert Brown, Franklin Butler, William Casson, Ernest Chevalier, William Claire, Lee Cook, Kenneth Dann, Joseph Dominick, Louis Dominick, Robert Dykins, Lennox Fay, Lawrence Gardner, Donald Gillespie, Harold Heidrich, James Hope, Arnold Hunt, Charles Johnson, David Little, Decker Long, Elwin Miller, Edward Murray, John Murray, Richard Peck, Wendell Root, Lee Shumway, John Smith, Alio Triches and Edward Vincent.

During the current year members of Troop 27 have assisted the D. A. R. with the planting of 2000 pine trees at the James Coon lot in Freeman, assisted merchants during Golden Rule Sales Day, did excellent work in traffic during the Barth building fire and were active in water safety and traffic at the Old Home Day at Goodhue Lake.

Several outdoor hikes and camping trips are planned for the company this fall and winter.

J. L. Stillman in Rathbone Race

Seeks Republican Nomination for Supervisor — Veteran of World War—Pledges Economical and Efficient Administration.

J. L. Stillman in one of three candidates for the Republican nomination for supervisor in the town of Rathbone. A newcommer to political affairs, Mr. Stillman nevertheless has many friends active in his behalf. The word is out from sources close to the candidate that Mr. Stillman stands a real chance of walking off with the honors and that his hat is in the ring to stay until the votes are counted.

Joseph Lyle Stillman, known as "Lyle" to his friends was born at Alfred, N. Y., on October 2, 1899, the son of Asher and Luella Davie Stillman. He attended grammar school near Scottdale, Pa., also the East Huntington, Pa., High School. A machinist by trade, he entered the employ of the Erie Railroad in Hornell in September, 1916, and except for a period of 24 months service in the World War has been constantly with the Erie since that time.

One month to the day after the declaration of war, April 14, 1917, to be exact, Mr. Stillman enlisted for military service at Hornell. He was sent to New York City and from there assigned to the 27th Division at Camp Wadsworth, South Carolina. He was later transferred to Co. E, 19th Engineers and sailed overseas with this unit in January, 1918. From then until the war ended the 19th was in almost constant service transporting supplies and ammunition and conveying guns and materials to the lines. Altogether, Mr. Stillman saw 18 months' service in France. He was honorably discharged from the army upon return of the 19th Engineers to the United States in April 1919.

Mr. Stillman was married to Miss Ruth Dimick of Cameron Mills on August 29, 1921. They have four children, Harold, Phyllis, Irene and Robert. For the past three years they have resided on a farm located about two miles from the village of Rathbone on the Rathbone-Cameron Mills road. This farm, which is owned by Mr. Stillman, is commonly known as the John Bowyer farm. Previously they had resided for about seven years at Cameron Mills, township of Rathbone, where Mr. Stillman was a home owner.

For the past two years, Mr. Stillman has been trustee of school district No. 7 in Rathbone. He has been a member of Cameron Mills Lodge, No. 547, A. F. & A. M. for many years and is well known in Masonic circles.

When interviewed by an ADVERTISER representative, Mr. Stillman stated that in the event of his nomination and election he would endeavor to render an efficient and economical administration. He pledged himself to serve the interests of all citizens of the township without discrimination or favor.

THE TIDES OF LIFE, is the story of the endocrine glands in bodily adjustment. This is by R. G. Hoskins, M. D.

TWENTY YEARS A-GROWING, by Maurice O'Sullivan is highly recommended by all reviewers. It tells of the Blasket Islands which lie off the Kerry coast in one corner of Ireland and is the story of one of the islanders, whitten by himself. It overflows with native wit and vigor of the people whose lives it describes.

IN THE HOUSE OF EXILE, Nora Waln tells of her life as an adopted daughter of a Chinese aristocracy. Pearl Buck, author of the Good Earth, has said that "it is undoubtedly one of the most delightful books of personal experience that has yet been written about China.

NOTICE

To Woodhull Baseball Club:

With the baseball season entering its last months, the undersigned, as manager of the Shell Easterns of Addison, hereby challenges the Woodhull team to a three game series.

Efforts have been made on previous occasions to arrange either a game or a series with the Woodhull club, but to no avail. The question is, for once and all—will Woodhull play the Shell Easterns? If not, why not?

(Signed) Harold Hibbard.

Gilbert Brown Home From Scout Trip to Fair

Gilbert Brown, of Tuscarora Street, returned last week from Chicago where he had attended the Century of Progress with ninety-two other Boy Scouts from the Steuben area. He was enthusiastic oevr the Fair and over his many sights and experiences, going and coming.

The trip was made by bus, the first group of scouts leaving Corning at 5:30 o'clock on Monday morning, August 21st. The complete party, in three bus loads, left Hornell at 7:30, in charge of Percy L. Dunn, scout executive of the Hornell area, Prof. Conroe of Alfred University and Dr. Guernsey of Corning.

The first stop was at Kane, Pa., where the boys were permitted to see the only Lobo Wolves known to be in existence. Two of the wolves were allowed to engage in a sparring match through the wires at a special treat for the visitors. At Akron, Ohio, they saw the immense hanger which had housed the ill-fated dirigible "Akron" and has later been used for her sister ship the "Macon" At Marion, a stop was made to view the Harding memorial. The first night was spent at a hotel in Wooster, Ohio, the second at Valparaiso, Indiana, where the boys attended a show.

They arrived in Chicago on Wednesday morning and were immidiately escorted to the big Scout camp at the Lake Michigan Beach Club. They had breakfast each morning at the camp, while dinner and supper were taken at the fair grounds.

The football game in the gigantic stadium at Soldier's Field, in which selected gridiron stars from the big collegiate football teams matched punts and passes, blocks and charges, gave the boys a real thrill. They were greatly impressed by the many sights at the Fair and agreed that it was an experience which would never be forgotten.

On the return trip, stops were made at Valparaiso and Elyria, Ohio. All of the boys enjoyed good health and no accidents occurred to mar the trip.

Return From New England

Skeet Shoot This Sunday

Under Auspices of Addison Fish and Game Club—Open to Public — Fifty Additional Cans of Trout Received.

A skeet shoot will be held this Sunday by the Addison Fish and Game Club at the Club's newly completed skeet field on the Mc Carthy farm. The shoot will start promptly at ten o'clock Sunday morning and continue until noon. The general public is invited to attend, either as participants in the shoot or as spectators.

The skeet field here, which was recently completed under direction of F. S. Gillespie, chairman of the Trap Committee, is the only field of its type in this section. So for as is known, the only other skeet field along the Southern Tier is the one recently installed at Elmira. Due to the widely prevailing interest in this form of sport at the present time, it is expected that a large attendance, both from Addison and from distant places will be present on Sunday.

On Tuesday of this week, fifty additional cans of brown trout were recievel by the local Fish and Game Club from the state hatchery at Hammondsport. All of these were placed in Tuscarora Creek the same day. This brings the total to eighty-six cans distributed by the club this year.

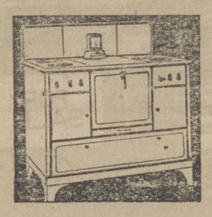
COOK with ELECTRICITY

the FLAMELESS Heat

DON'T confuse electricity with ordinary types of fuel. Electricity is energy—energy that at the turn of a switch becomes light, power or HEAT. And Electric heat is an unsurpassed cooking medium. It is fast, convenient, safe, economical and unlike any fuel, it is FLAMELESS. There is nothing to burn; no ashes, smoke or soot. Electricity never has to be ordered. The turn of a switch provides all the clean, intense heat you want.



Electricity compares favorably with ANY fuel in cost. Your electric-range dealer or your electric company will give you an estimate of the cost of electric cooking in your home. You will be surprised at the small increase in your electric bill when you cook this modern way. Inquire to-day.

HEAT WATER ELECTRICALLY

Hot water...day in and day out...any hour...is yours when you have an Automatic Electric Water Heater. Investigate its economy. Ask your dealer or consult us.

Farm Bureau Excursion To Fair, Sept. 26

A second tour to the World Fair will be conducted by the Farm Bureau, in response to the demands of the membership throughout the state who could not be accommodated on the first excursion.

The date of the pilgrimage to the Century of Progress is September 26 to 30. The movement will be by special trains on the New York Central, going through Canada on the way out and from Detroit to Buffalo on the return, by boat. Transportation for Steuben County will be on the D. L. & W.

Like the first, this will be an all expense tour. The party will lodge at Chicago South Side Hotel convenient to the Fair Grounds. The size of the party is limited to 1,000 persons and reservations will be closed when that number is reached.

All farmers and their friends are eligible to attend the tour. Complete information will be furnished upon inquiry to the Farm Bureau Office at Bath.

The August farm price index was 72 compared to 76 in July, to 64 in June, and 59 in August, 1932. These are based on the average of the years 1910 to 1914, which is set at 100.

SNAPPY MILK DRINKS

Animal Tricks

The smart young wild cat walked down the trail near the edge of the lake. In the water, sunning himself, slept old Mr. Otter.

These two friends were always playing tricks on each other, and when the wild cat saw the otter seemingly asleep in the shallow water, he speedily climbed an overhanging tree.

He ran out on a branch, and began to throw pieces of park on the head of the otter below. This made the otter angry and he told the wild cat to stop. But the wild cat only laughed and yelled, "Come up and get me".

Of course, the otter could not climb the tree; but the wild cat insisted, "Come on up."

So the otter came ashore, and the wild oat told him if he came up he could see right down into the water. But the otter only laughed, and the wild cat took hold of him by the back of the neck and pushed him up the sloping trunk of the tree and out to the end of the branch, the cat ran down to the ground and gave a hearty laugh, for there was the otter high in the tree.

Finally, the otter tried to move and slipped off in the water.

Then the otter thought he would get even, so he invited the wild cat to take a ride on the water. So the cat got on the otter's back and the otter swam out to deep water. Then the otter dived and left the wild cat struggling. The wild cat pleaded with the otter to save him; so when the cat promised to play no more mean tricks the otter swam the tricky wild cat back to dry land. Since then the wild cat tries no smart tricks on the otter.

More than six million bushels of potatoes, or 16 per cent of the normal New York state crop, are unfit for food or seed. Much of this loss can be prevented by more careful harvesting and better storage. The free Cornell bulletin E-141 suggests ways to reduce this loss. Send your request to the office of publication of the New York state college of agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y.

How What and Why?

This paper has arranged with the Office of Information of the New York State colleges of agriculture and home economics to answer questions about problems of farm and home. If you enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and mention the name of this paper, you will receive a direct reply to your query from the colleges. Do not ask more than one question in one letter or on one post card. Ask as many questions as you like, but make each one a separate communication.

What to Grow on Clay

B. B. asks: "My farm is all clay soil. What crops grow best on clay?"

Professor E. Van Alstine says, "A 'soil doctor' just like a physician, needs to know a great deal about the history of a case and about present situations before he can prescribe with any degree of accuracy. The physician who prescribes solely on the basis of a coated tongue may lose the case. The 'soil doctor' who advises what should be grown with no more knowledge than what the soil is like may lose his case, too, unless he guesses right or the farmer knows better than accept wrong advice.

"Possibly your heavy land should be growing alfalfa for the work horses, but then, of course, you may be doing your work with a tractor and you may not have horses.

"Peas and beans grow well on heavy land, but it may be that you have no market for them. Possibly your heavy soil is too acid for alfalfa, peas or beans, and should be limed for any of these crops.

"I think it would be best for you to give me some indication of the kind of crops you would like to grow and some information about the field; then send me a sample of the soil taken according to the directions I am enclosing. It would be even better if you could get your county agricultural agent to visit your farm and examine the field and soil.

"I am enclosing a questionnaire which calls for the information I shall need. If you will fill in this questionnaire and give me any other information that you think will be helpful and send me a sample of soil, I shall be pleased to make suggestions about crops for your farm."

Peach Leaf Curl

Mrs. F. J. asks: "The leaves on my peach tree came out normally this spring then turned yellow and curled and fell off the tree. New green leaves are forming and the tree has considerable fruit. Can you tell me how this condition can be avoided?"

Professor W. D. Mills says that your tree is affected with the peach leaf curl which is caused by a fungus parasite and not by the weather as some persons believe. The spores, or seeds, of the parasite live thru the winter on the twigs and on the hairy bud scales. When the buds swell in the spring, the spores germinate. The spores may be carried from the buds to the leaves by rain and wind and soon infect the whole tree.

A lime sulfur spray applied at any time during the dormant season, except in freezing weather is effective. About the best time is soon after the leaves drop in the fall, for if the spray is delayed until spring, unfavorable weather may delay the application until it is too late to control the parasite. Use concentrated lime sulfur diluted one to fifteen. If the concentration of the spray is made one to eight, the spray will control the San Jose scale at the same time.

Pink Timothy Bloom

M. R. asks: "I have been told that timothy has both pink and yellow blooms but I have never seen any color except purple. Does timothy have the pink and yellow bloom?

H. B. Hartwig says the reason most persons have never seen pink or yellow blooms on timothy is that the first bloom comes out between midnight and two o'clock in the morning and may be either pink or yellow. By breakfast time the bloom changes to purple and remains purple until a dew or rain causes the purple to bleach to gray. Timothy starts to bloom at the top of the head and continues downward. A single head may be in bloom for a week or two and a field of timothy may be in bloom for several weeks. If the timothy is cut when most of the heads are blooming at the tip ends, the hay is of excellent quality for feed and for sale.

Prices Follow Gold Premium

Index in New York State Farm Products Gains From 56 in February to 93 in July, Compared to 100 as Pre-War Average.

The general level of commodity prices continues to be the most important single factor affecting farming. It is therefore important that farmers continue to consider the gold premium before deciding any business step, advises F. A. Pearson, of the New York state college of agriculture, in a recent edition of Farm Economics.

Prices of seventeen basic commodities moved in the same direction as did the gold premium on fifty-four of the eighty-six days from April 18 to August 5. The trend in wheat prices was the same as for gold. Whenever wheat prices departed from this relationship, a violent reaction occurred. The trend of corn prices has also followed the price of gold, but the fluctuations have been extremely violent. Cotton prices, he says, can be expected to rise more than the price of gold because clothing is the first saving in time of unemployment and among the first purchases when money is available.

Prices paid to New York state farmers for all products rose from fifty-six in February to ninety-three in July, figuring the 1910 to 1914 average as 100. At the same time prices paid to farmers in the United States for all products rose from forty-nine to eighty-one. Prices paid to farmers for food rose from fifty-one in February to eighty-three in July, or sixty-three per cent, while the average price for all commodities rose from eighty-seven to 100. At prices about fifty per cent above pre-war, prices paid to farmers for food, retail prices of food, and costs of distribution would reach their pre-war relationships, he says.

Ice Cream Called Valuable Food As Well As A Delicious Sweet

Ingredients of Well-Made Ice Cream Give It First-Rate Food Value, Commissioner Baldwin Points Out

By CHARLES H. BALDWIN
Commissioner, Department of Agriculture and Markets Albany, New York

ICE CREAM holds a unique place among the popular desserts. It is a valuable food as well as a delicious sweet. Milk and cream, Nature's most perfect foods, contain all the basic food elements in the most easily digestible form, besides all of the vitamins most necessary to health. Inasmuch as milk and cream are the principle ingredients in ice cream, all these essential food elements are present in this dessert, as well as other elements equally necessary to healthful diet.

Rich Foods in Ice Cream

Eggs, for instance, an important ingredient in some forms of frozen desserts, are one of the best sources of protein, iron, phosphorus, and lime, and particularly of the very necessary Vitamin D. Since milk is somewhat lacking in Vitamin D, the combination of eggs with milk and cream in ice cream makes a very complete food.

Sugar is one of the best energy foods, and what would ice cream be without sugar?

Frozen custards, French ice cream, and parfaits, which require eggs, either whole or the yolks, are higher in fat content and more nourishing than the sherbets, made from skim milk, with or without eggs, and the water ices, made from fruit juices, sugar and water. Mousse, composed almost entirely of cream whipped stiff before freezing, makes up somewhat in food value through the heavy quality of the cream used.

That all children need a quart of milk a day for proper nutrition and health protection, is the dictum of the dieticians. All children like ice cream. This, therefore, is an easy and successful way of persuading the youngsters to take their quart of milk a day—if, indeed, they need persuading!

Furthermore, ice cream is a form of sweet which, unlike candy, does not cause digestive troubles in the children if it is properly compounded in the home or purchased from concerns that conform to the standards of purity and sanitation required by the laws of the State of New York.

Ice Cream Standards

According to these standards, plain ice cream must contain not less than 10 per cent butter fat and 18 per cent total milk solids, nor more than ½ of 1 per cent of added stabilizers, composed of edible substances. Standards for sherbets, ices, parfaits and souffles are also legally established.

Careful inspection of all plants manufacturing ice cream by the State Department of Agriculture and Markets, to conform to these standards of purity in quality and sanitation, keeps our commercially manufactured ice cream products up to a high standard.

Bovee Named Delegate To National Meet

Of American Legion, To Be Held in Chicago Later This Month—Returns From Binghamton Enthusiastic Over Program of Legion in Serving Disabled Men.

At the Department Convention of the American Legion, held in Binghamton last Thursday, Friday, and Saturday,Police Chief Elmer C. Bovee of Addison, delegate from Steuben County, was elected delegate to the National Convention from the Seventh District of the Department of New York. The National gathering will convene in Chicago, late this month.

Chief Bovee returned from Binghamton Sunday, enthusiastic over achievements of the Legion during the past year. He praised Binghamton as a convention city, commended the conduct of the Legion naires during all of the convention period and expressed admiration for many of the convention speakers.

He singled out in particular the speech of Dr. Geogre J. Lawrence, retiring state commander in which the latter outlined a four-point program for future guidance of the Legion. The four points set forth by the state head were:

1—That no war veteran disabled in line of duty shall suffer any reduction in those benefits granted such veterans in the World War Veterans Act as in effect prior to March 20, 1933.

2—That hospitalization under federal government auspicies be offorded all war veterans not dishonorably discharged who require hospital treatment and who are not able to reasonably pay for their own treatment.

3—That perpetuation of service connection for all veterans as properly granted such service connection under laws in existence prior to March 20, 1933 be recommended as an item of Legion policy.

4—That the benefits provided for dependents of veterans as established in the World War Veterans Act be resumed and maintained as the government policy and that in no way shall widows or dependent children of deceased war veterans be without government protection.

Other speeches of note included Senator Copeland, chairman of the Senate Committee on Racketeering, who asked the American Legion to join the war against rackets and gangsterism. "An aroused public opinion is necessary" said the Senator, "because they are many evils to be contested. All the racketeers have not been in the so-called criminal classes."

Chief Bovee stated that the threat of discord over the election of department officials melted away when James J. Gallivan of Rochester, who had the support of many western New York delegates, withdrew in favor of Robert E. Minnich of Tupper Lake. At the closing session Mr. Minnich was unanimously elected to serve as commander for the coming year.

The desire and intent of the Legion to co-operate with the administration in working toward National recovery was emphasized by all speakers. Reports from all quarters indicated that action of the Legion in standing definitely back of the President's recovery program was gaining much praise and favor for the organization.

Cardinals Lose Series To Almond Team

The Gang Mills Cardinals who have been traveling high, wide and handsome, had a kink put in their aspirations by the Almond, pace setters in the Salli League, on Labor Day afternoon. The Cards emerged on the short end of a 5-3 count.

With but one down in the ninth, the Gangsters advanced men to second and third bases, but lacked the punch to put them across for markers. Each team had previously won a game and the encounter was the deciding tilt of of the series.

Alumni Edges High School

Grads Win Out by 5-4 Count — Game Fast and Well Played.

John Grange's Alumni won out by a 5 to 4 score over the Addison High School baseball team last Friday afternoon on the local high school diamond. Due to fine pitching there was very little heavy hitting. Joe Hopper, of "bullet ball" fame, was particularly effective. Captain Grange, who essayed the twirling duties for the grads, was steady throughout.

Charles Hickey played a beautiful fielding game and Teddy Laffkas staged an exhibition back of the plate equal to that seen in big league ball lots. Robbins, the high school backstop, also worked beautifully, while the play of Hallett and Hovey of Coach Hewson's infield staff left nothing to be desbired.

dorsed by the regimental staff and fifteen hundred printed copies were made up for distribution to all commissioned and non-commissioned officers in the medical Corps throughout the 27th Division. Although the plan was worked out in detail by Dr. Stiker personally, his name at his own request does not appear on the printed edition. Instead the completed work has the name and endorsment of the Division Medical Staff.

The system covers completely such subjects as military courtesy, drill, the litter, bandaging and splints, organization, guard duty, individual equipment, hygene, and sanitation, anatomy, chemical warfare, map reading, cercemonies, etc. Officials high in military circles have commended it freely and termed it the best plan yet devised for assignment of promotion ratings.

Further honor came to Dr. Stiker at the recent encampment when he was named sanitary inspector of the regimental area, attached to the personel staff of Colonel Lucius A. Salisbury, commanding officer of the 102nd Medical Regiment. In this capacity it was his duty to inspect and see to the health conditions of the entire regiment as affected by water supply, food supply, waste disposal, and general cleanliness.

Dr. Stiker has long been active in military circles. In the World War period, he was commissioned as first lieutenant on May 10, 1918 and went into active duty on August 10th of the same year. For nine months thereafter until May 10th, 1919 he was stationed at Raritan, N. J. as a member of the arsenal staff when he was honorably discharged from active duty.

Dr. Stiker then became active in the reserve and was promoted to the rank of Major on July 19, 1924. In January 1926 he resigned his commission in the reserve corps and accepted the commission as Captain in the National Guard with assignment to the 105th Hospital Company with headquarters in Corning. This unit is part of the 102nd medical regiment of the 27th Division. The Centralized medical regiment is an outgrowth of the past war, experience in which led all groups to be assembled in one large unit instead of being scattered under seperate commands as before. This plan is now being followed by all the large countries of the world. Yet, while they have the organization in skeleton form, the only complete medical regiment in world at this time, with supplies and instruments ready for war at a moments notice is the one belonging to the 27th Division of which the 105th Hospital Company is a part.

In addition to being one of the three officers in command of the Company, Captain Stiker has held the responsible position of officer in charge of all supplies pertaining to the Company. These supplies are stored in the armory at Corning and are valued at approximately $100,000.

Captain R. H. Davis, commanding officer of the 105th Hospital Company is a former Addison man, but now resides in Elmira. Other members well known in Addison are William Craig, property sergeant, formerly a plumber in Addison. now a resident of Corning; Kenneth Chatfield and John G. Crane, local boys, and also members of the unit. A number of vacancies to the company will occur in October and applications are now being received from those desirous of enlisting in the National Guard. The attendance record of this company is an enviable one, it being one of two units in the regiments to have 100% attendance at the recent encampment.

Clifford Russ Returns From Adirondack Trip

Clinton D. Russ, "Cliff" as he is known to the men about town and especially to patrons of the J. W. Russ Auto Supply store, returned Tuesday evening from a week's motor trip to the Thousand Islands and the Adirondacks. He was accompanied by Miss Glorina Bush, of Addison, whose relatives, Mr. and Mrs. William Proper of Tupper Lake and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pender of Watertown, entertained them through the yeek and escorted them to many points of scenic beauty and historic interest.

The trip to Watertown was made in one day. From there they drove to Alexander Bay, where they enjoyed a searchlight trip by boat among the Thousand Islands. They also visited Lake Placid, Saranac Lake and Ausable Chasm. The fishing was fine, according to "Cliff," who was fortunate enough to catch a 9¾ pound great northern pike in the Racket River, a goodly number of blue bass and wall eyed pike, also graced his string at various stages.

Ice skating was the order of the day at Lake Placid on artificial ice, of course. The state park at Saranac, crowded with deer, was another feature. Coal burning motors are prohibited in the Adirondacks, and oil burners are used instead through the mountain region as a precaution against forest fires.

Improved industrial conditions are reported. The paper mill at Piercefield, N. Y., is said to be operating on an emergency rush schedule of seven days a week, twenty-four hours a day. A woodworking plant at Tupper Lake is also said to be operating at capacity.

Concrete roads extend over practically the entire extent of the route followed by the vacationists. Furthermore, they are well marked at all points. The hill and mountains all beautiful in foliage and contour were made easily on steady grades.

The party returned Sunday last, via Syracuse, Ithaca and Watkins Glen..

"Beautiful sights and a magnificent trip," said "Cliff," whose enthusiastic description, when querried by an ADVERTISER representative, portrays beyond question that his vacation was most enjoyable.

Miss Margaret Grange of Buffalo, spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Margaret Grange.
